

Figure 1.10: The labor force in the United States, 1960–2000. The labor force is the number of people who are either employed or actively seeking employment. The labor force is shown in millions of people.

Figure 1.10 shows that the labor force in the United States has grown steadily over the past 40 years. The labor force is the number of people who are either employed or actively seeking employment. The labor force is shown in millions of people.

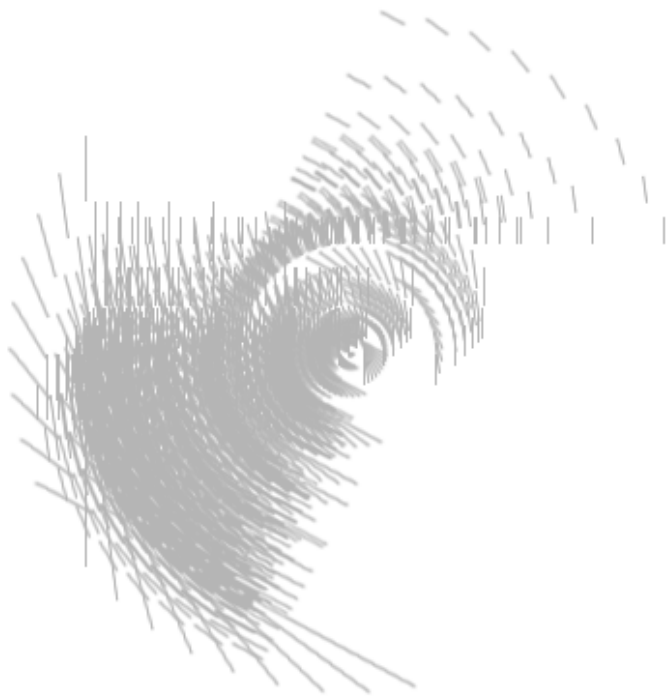

Figure 1.10 shows that the labor force in the United States has grown steadily over the past 40 years. The labor force is the number of people who are either employed or actively seeking employment. The labor force is shown in millions of people.

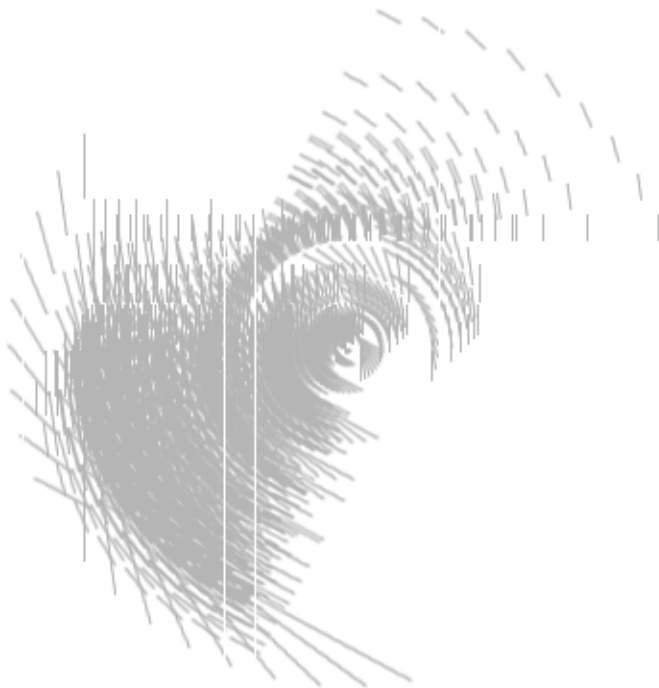

Figure 1.10 shows that the labor force in the United States has grown steadily over the past 40 years. The labor force is the number of people who are either employed or actively seeking employment. The labor force is shown in millions of people.

Figure 1.10 shows that the labor force in the United States has grown steadily over the past 40 years. The labor force is the number of people who are either employed or actively seeking employment. The labor force is shown in millions of people.

Figure 1.10 shows that the labor force in the United States has grown steadily over the past 40 years. The labor force is the number of people who are either employed or actively seeking employment. The labor force is shown in millions of people.

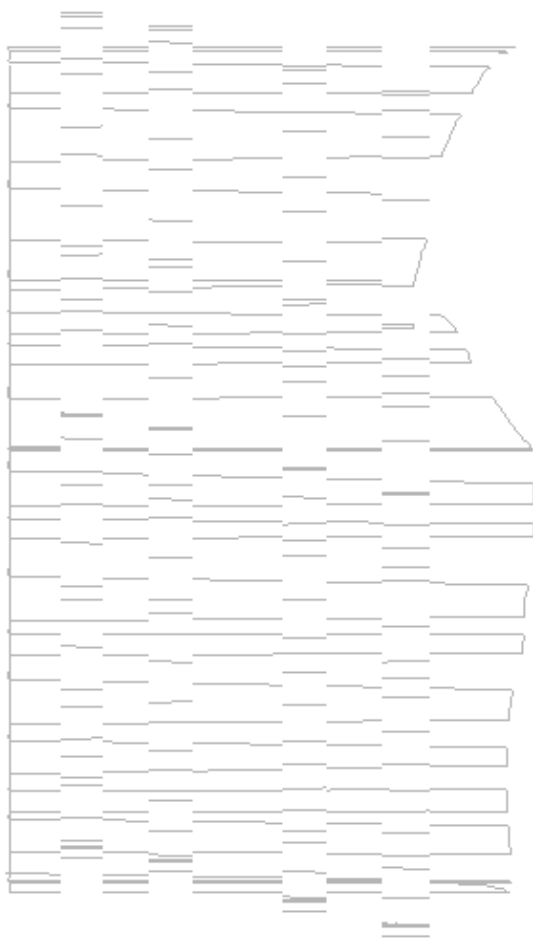

Figure 1.10 shows that the labor force in the United States has grown steadily over the past 40 years. The labor force is the number of people who are either employed or actively seeking employment. The labor force is shown in millions of people.

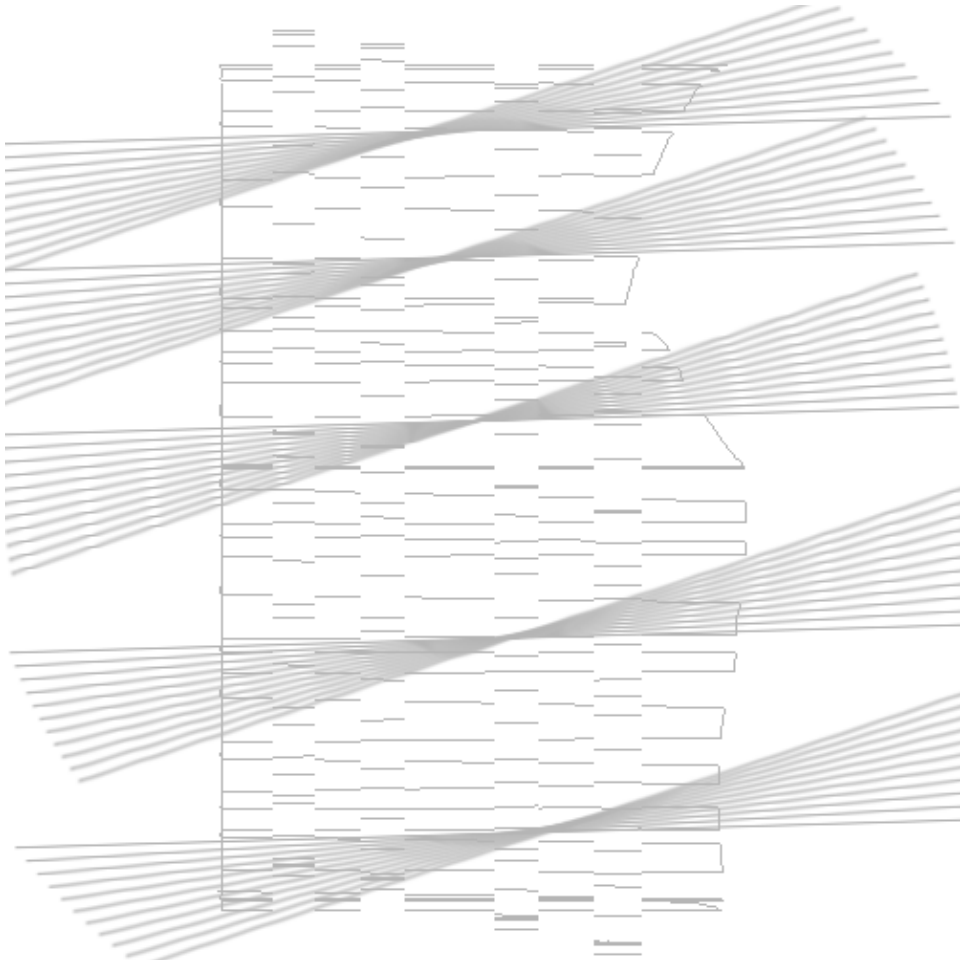

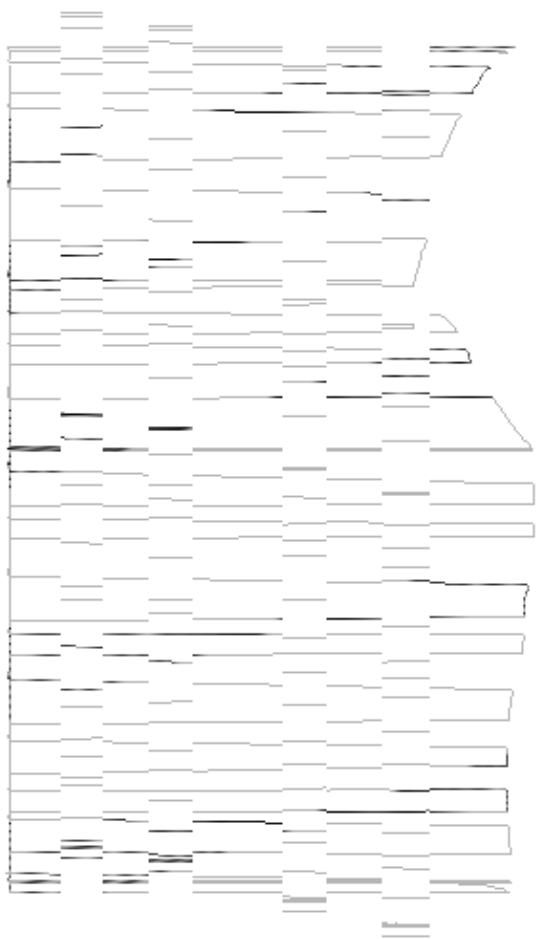

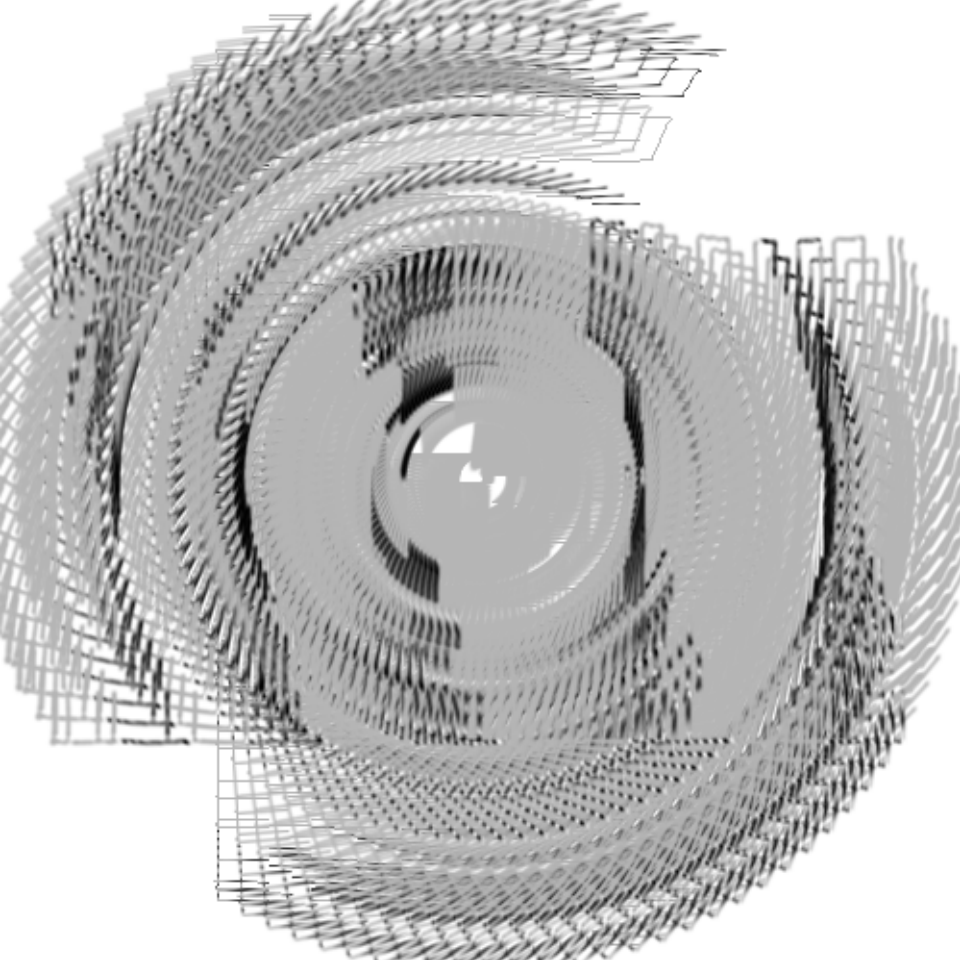

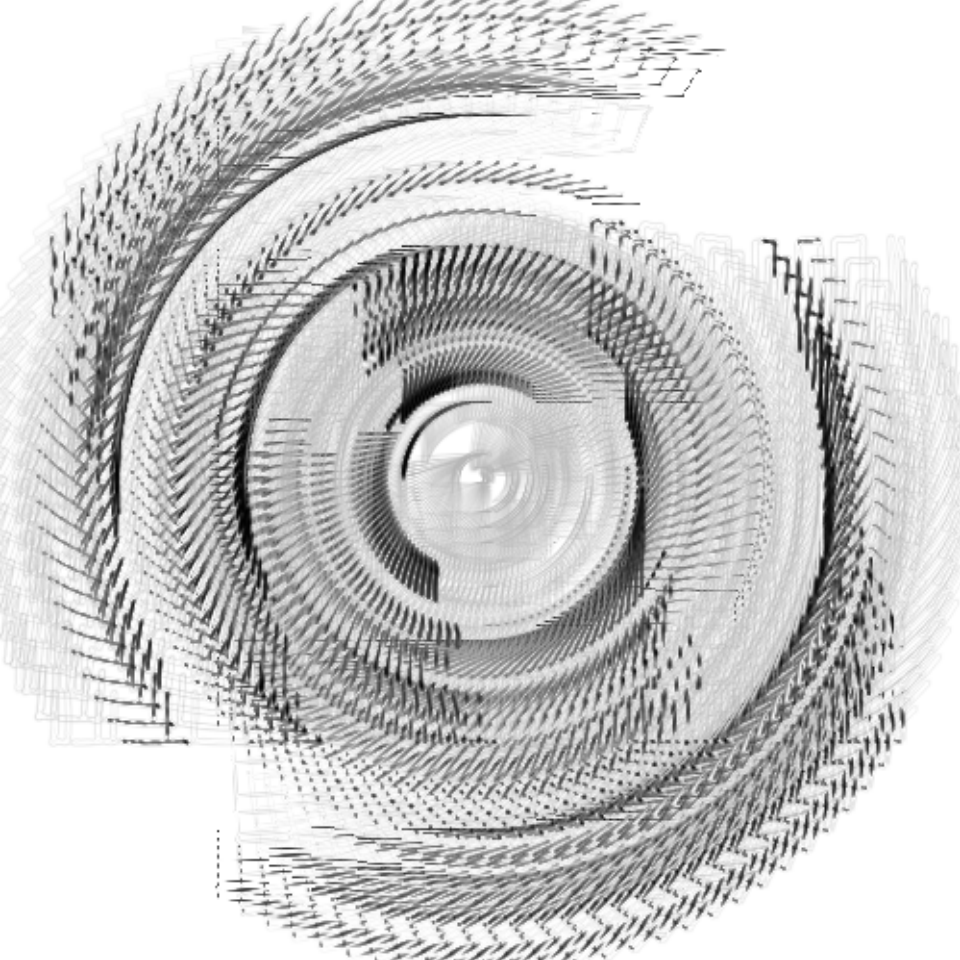

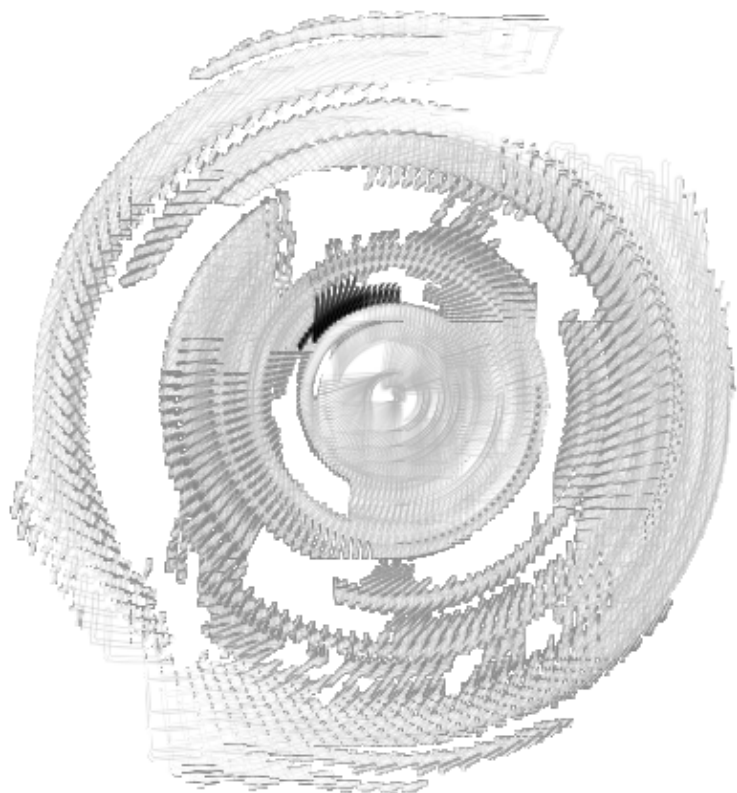

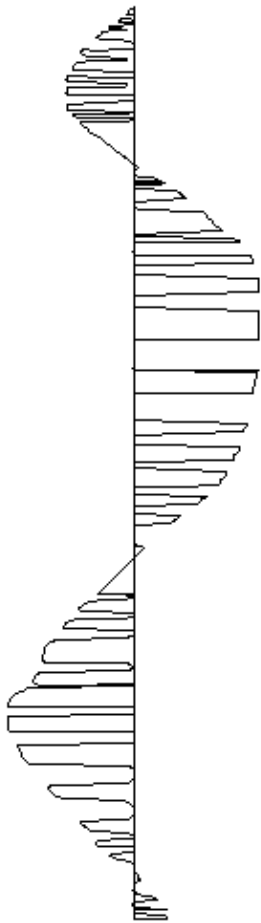

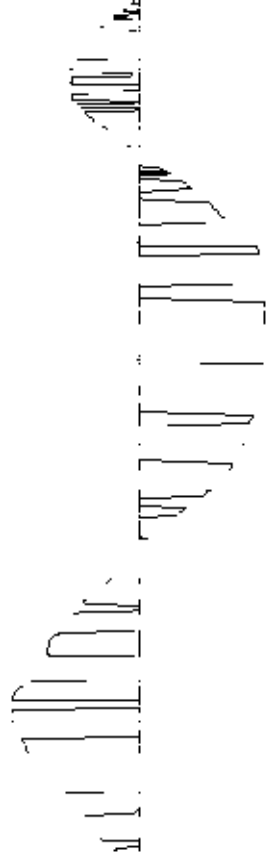

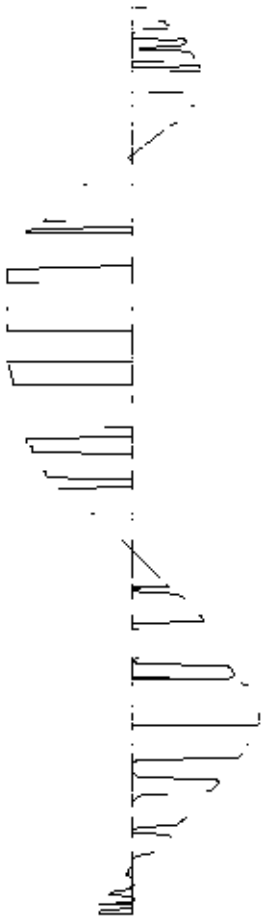

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

27

Handwritten text in a cursive script, possibly a form of shorthand or a specific dialect. The text is arranged in a vertical column and includes several lines of characters, some of which are highly stylized and resemble symbols or abbreviations.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, similar to the one above. This section contains a longer passage of text, also written vertically. It features a mix of recognizable characters and highly stylized, possibly symbolic, elements.

